

FLINDERS ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY | Membership Form

The Flinders Archaeological Society (ArchSoc) is a non-for-profit organisation dedicated to enhancing the experience of Flinders' archaeological students and to broaden the understanding of archaeology and inheritance amongst the student body and the general community.

ArchSoc strives to provide a social environment; to raise public awareness about archaeology; and facilitate the development of archaeological skills through a range of social networking and professional development events.

We run social events (such as; pubcrawls, pub nights, BBQs, and an annual quiz night), training sessions, community days, seminars and volunteer opportunities.

ArchSoc aims to:

- ✓ Host social and academic events throughout the year;
- ✓ Facilitate student networking opportunities amongst other students and professionals;
  - ✓ Promote student attendance at national conferences;
- ✓ Promote the Flinders University Department of Archaeology, its staff, students and associates;
  - ✓ Promote ethical approaches and best practices in archaeology;
- ✓ Engage the wider community with archaeology and interactive and informative ways
